

This is... JEOPARDY!!

Directions:

Materials: Bulletin board, or poster foam board, pushpins, scissors, these game questions, paper and pencil (to keep score).

Before playing: Create a Jeopardy board on a large piece of poster foam board, or you can also use a bulletin board. Use pushpins to pin up each square from the left column, organizing each square into its own category, starting with 100 at the top and 500 at the bottom. Pin the questions behind each square.

To play: The youngest player goes first. He or she chooses a category and level. The host removes the front piece of paper, for example, Moses 200, and reads the question behind it. Any player may answer the question. Whoever raises their hand first gets to answer. Whoever gets the answer right gets the number of points on the front of the card. In this example, 200 points. (Unless you're playing with kids older than elementary, do not subtract points for being wrong.) Whoever answers right also gets to choose the next category.

Have fun! If you have any questions, send me a message.
